The Last Lecture Thoughts

After watching Randy's video, it really put into perspective my own view on mortality, specifically my own, and how I would approach the remainder of my life if given a time frame of months to live like Randy was given. The fact that he still taught and developed amazing programs like Alice, all while having a positive attitude about life, was very humbling, and helped me see that it's better to live in the moment, as we really don't know when it will be our last.
